

SECRET

A computer system includes a memory and a processor. The memory stores a program to cause the processor to provide error data that indicate motion in an image.

- 28